

FormYaar → Holy Smoke: The Combined Roadmap

One business funds the other. Here's exactly when.

The One Rule Governing This Whole Plan

Holy Smoke does not get funded by hope. It gets funded by FormYaar's proven cash flow. Every stage below has a gate — a specific number that has to be true — before you move to the next one. Skipping a gate because you're excited is exactly how the Zorko-style trap happens: growing before the unit economics are proven.

Phase 1 — Months 0-6: FormYaar Foundation

What's happening: Trust layer, technical hygiene, manual outreach, first 8-10 city pages (per the Growth Bible). FormYaar milestone: ~50 → 200 → 500 sales/month. Holy Smoke: Nothing capital-intensive yet. This is when Stage 0 validation can happen — a cheap, small-batch taste test of 3-5 patty recipes with real people in Kota, costing a few thousand rupees, not lakhs. Do this only once you have a small buffer beyond your last ₹1,000 — not before. Gate to move on: City pages showing real impressions in Search Console; validation test has told you which recipe direction people actually prefer.

Phase 2 — Months 6-18: FormYaar Scaling

What's happening: Blog content, YouTube, referral mechanics kick in; SEO compounding starts doing real work. FormYaar milestone: ~1,000/month (month 6) growing toward ~4,000-4,600 sales/month — the range needed for ₹1 lakh net profit at flat ₹29/sale (fewer sales needed if you've introduced higher-ticket tiers like PAN correction or minor PAN by now). Holy Smoke: Nothing yet. Resist the urge to start renting a kiosk here — the capital isn't real yet, it's projected. Gate to move on: FormYaar crosses ₹1 lakh net profit in a single month for the first time.

Phase 3 — Months ~18-21: Proving It's Real, Not a Spike

What's happening: Don't treat month one at ₹1 lakh as the finish line — confirm it holds for 2-3 consecutive months. This is also roughly where GST registration becomes relevant (turnover crosses ~₹20 lakh/year, i.e. ~₹1.67 lakh/month gross) — worth confirming with a CA around here, not after. Holy Smoke: This is a good moment for the conversation with your father — you now have actual sustained numbers to show, not a projection. His ₹5 lakh, if it comes, becomes real capital here rather than a hopeful assumption. Gate to move on: ₹1 lakh net profit sustained for 3 months running.

Phase 4 — Months ~21-24: Building the Kiosk Fund

What's happening: At 50k/month saved (post-reinvestment), a ₹1.5-4 lakh kiosk budget is reachable in 3-8 months of saving alone — you don't need the full ₹12 lakh war chest to open the first kiosk, only enough for Stage 1. Holy Smoke: Recipe/SOP finalized (from Phase 1's validation), supplier relationships for sauces/fillings lined up, FSSAI basic registration filed (₹100/year). Gate to move on: ₹1.5-4 lakh actually sitting in the account, earmarked and untouched for anything else.

Phase 5 — Month ~24: Kiosk Launch

What's happening: First Holy Smoke kiosk opens in Kota — small format, no AC/seating complexity, SOP-driven so it doesn't depend on one chef. FormYaar: Keeps running in parallel — this is the point where it needs to be stable enough to not require your full daily attention, since Holy Smoke's launch month will eat your time. Gate to move on: Doesn't apply yet — this phase is the test.

Phase 6 — Months 24-36: Prove the Single Unit

What's happening: Track real food cost %, real footfall, real repeat-customer rate for 6-12 months. This is the Zorko lesson in practice: prove one outlet works before even thinking about a second. Watch for: Kota's volatility — student numbers here have swung 50%+ in two-year windows before, tied to coaching-industry health and regulation. If Kota softens, that's real information, not a personal failure. Gate to move on: A genuinely profitable, repeatable single outlet — real numbers, not projections — for at least 6 months.

Phase 7 — Month 36+: The Franchise Conversation

Only now does codifying the SOP into a franchise package, deciding royalty vs. no-royalty model, and scaling outlet count become a real conversation instead of a premature one.
